

Curriculum Vitae
Mark Raymond

902.420.5675
902.420.5129 (fax)
e-mail: mark.raymond@smu.ca

Education:

1995 - 2001	Ph.D. Economics University of Guelph
1993 - 1994	M.A. Economics University of Windsor
1987 - 1990	B.A. Economics University of Windsor

Work Experience:

2003 – present	Adjunct Professor, Dalhousie University
2001 – present	Assistant Professor, Saint Mary's University
2000 - 2001	Lecturer, Saint Mary's University
1999	Lecturer, University of Guelph
1998	Course development (web based), University of Guelph
1997-2000	Lecturer, University of Windsor
1996 - 1999	Instructor, Distance Education, University of Guelph
1994 - 1995	Special Projects Manager, Corporate Recovery Services
1990 - 1992	Special Investigations Unit, State Farm Insurance

Courses:	Money and Banking (second year) Introductory Microeconomics and Macroeconomics Environmental economics (second year and fourth year) Graduate Macroeconomics I and II Macroeconomics (third year) Natural Resource Economics (second year) Fisheries Economics (second year) Resource Economics (Graduate)
-----------------	---

Papers:

Raymond, M. 2004. "Peace and Security: an Introductory Comparison of Glace Bay and Kings County" GPI Atlantic, Canadian Population Health Initiative.

Raymond, M. 2004. "Cigarette Smoking: an Introductory Comparison of Glace Bay and Kings County" GPI Atlantic, Canadian Population Health Initiative.

Raymond, M. and A. Weeksink, 2003. "Agriculture and citizen complaints", submitted to journal.

Raymond, M, 2003 "Regulatory compliance with costly and uncertain litigation", forthcoming, Journal of Regulatory Economics.

Raymond, M. and R. McKittrick, 2003 “Citizen complaints and the environment: an examination of the guard”, submitted to journal.

Chen, W., H. Hong, Y. Liu, L. Zhang, X. Hou, M. Raymond, 2003, “Recreation demand and economic value: an application of travel cost method for Xiamen Island”, forthcoming, China Economic Review.

Raymond, M., 1999, “Enforcement leverage when penalties are restricted: a reconsideration under asymmetric information”, Journal of Public Economics, 73 (2), 289-295.

Papers presented at seminar:

“Agriculture and citizen complaints”, American Agricultural Economics Association.

“Recreation demand and economic value: an application of travel cost method for Xiamen Island”, International Conference on Environmental Concerns and Emerging Abatement Technologies.

“Enforcement leverage when penalties are restricted: a reconsideration under asymmetric information”, University of Windsor Invited Seminar Series, March, 1998.

Awards and Scholarships:

Nova Scotia Health Research Foundation – 2002
Canadian Institute for Health Research – 2002
Saint Mary's University Senate Research Grant - 2002
Saint Mary's University Senate Research Start-up Grant - 2001
Ontario Graduate Scholarship – 1999
SSHRC Doctoral Fellowship, 1997 - 1998
Ontario Graduate Scholarship - 1998
Brian Segal Alumni Doctoral Scholarship - 1998
Board of Graduate Studies Research Scholarship - 1997-1998

Committee and membership:

2001 - 2002	31 st annual Atlantic Canada Economic Association conference coordinator
2002	Co-coordinator of Community-Based Approaches to Health Research workshop series
2002 - present	Co-coordinator of Health System Research Group - an industry partnered research group
2003 – present	Executive Board Member – Environmental Studies Program, Saint Mary's University
2003 – present	Executive Board Member – Executive MBA, Saint Mary's University