Are you interested in learning hands-on and gaining practical experience?

The purpose of the course is to help students bring ethics into their decision making. Ethics will be defined in a broad, contextual, and practical sense. The course focuses on the individual decision maker, the organization as a context and culture that sets the stage for ethical action, and the broader societal, economic, political, and ecological systems that influence moral decision making.

Through reflection assignments, students connect their community-based experience to the course content. Students complete at least 12 hours of service learning over the semester.

Previous Community Partners have included: SMU Community Food Room; Feed NS; Sunday Supper Program; Parker Street Food Bank and more!
